The first British Invasion of the early 1960s changed the face of music forever and the next wave is sure to change the way we think about electric guitars, too. 50 years ago, an innovative designer by the name of Jim Burns began making truly Distinctive and Innovative guitar designs based on the concept of mass produced one-offs. Ever since then, these guitars have been found in the hands of influential musicians, and in collections worldwide. Now it's your chance to put one in your hands. Visit your local Burns dealer today and prepare yourself for the Second British Invasion!
